

THE SPIRIT OF DEMOCRACY.

A Family Newspaper—Devoted to Politics, Foreign and Domestic News, Literature, the Arts and Sciences, Education, Agriculture, Markets, Amusements &c

VOLUME XXXVII.

WOODSFIELD, MONROE COUNTY, OHIO. TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1880.

NUMBER 31.

THE SPIRIT OF DEMOCRACY.

PUBLISHED EVERY TUESDAY.

HENRY R. WEST, PROPRIETOR.

OFFICE: West Side of Main Street, two doors North of the Public Square.

TERMS: One copy, one year, $1.00

One copy, six months, .75

One copy, three months, .50

Single copy, 10 cents

Subscriptions can be commenced at any time.

Advertising Rates: One square (10 lines), one week, $1.00

One square, two weeks, $1.50

One square, three months, $3.00

One square, six months, $5.00

One square, one year, $8.00

One eighth column, one month, .50

One eighth column, three months, .75

One eighth column, six months, $1.00

One eighth column, one year, $1.50

One fourth column, one month, .75

One fourth column, three months, $1.00

One fourth column, six months, $1.50

One fourth column, one year, $2.00

One half column, one month, $1.00

One half column, three months, $1.50

One half column, six months, $2.00

One half column, one year, $3.00

Legal advertisements charged at the rate of one dollar per square for first insertion, and fifty cents for each subsequent insertion.

Advertisements for real estate, attachments and notices, per line, first insertion, 10 cents, and five cents per line for each additional week.

ATTORNEYS.

ALLEN E. HILL, Attorney at Law & Notary Public, Woodsfield, Ohio.

Office over Pope & Castle's Drug Store, Woodfield, Ohio.

WILLIAM H. COOKE, Attorney at Law & Notary Public, Woodsfield, Ohio.

Office over Ketterer & Hoffman's Store, S. W. corner of Public Square, Nov. 11, 79-80.

HOLLISTER & HOLLISTER, Attorneys at Law, Woodsfield, Ohio.

Will practice in Monroe and adjoining counties, feb20, 77-78.

DAVID OKEY, Attorney at Law, Woodsfield, Ohio.

Will practice in the County of Monroe and adjoining counties. Office over Ketterer & Hoffman's Store, feb20, 78-79.

WM. F. OKEY, Attorney at Law, Woodsfield, Ohio.

Office over Ketterer & Hoffman's Store, feb20, 78-79.

Notary Public, NEW MATAMORAS, OHIO.

Office in May's building, apr23, 80-81.

W. S. WILBY, PROSECUTING ATTORNEY, Attorney at Law, Woodsfield, Ohio.

REAL ESTATE AGENT, (Office upstairs in the Court House.)

NEW MATAMORAS, WEST VA. jan29, 78-79.

J. P. SPRIGGS, SPRIGGS & DRIGGS, Attorneys and Counsellors at Law, Woodsfield, Ohio.

Office—Up stairs in Court House, apr23, 74-75.

PEARSON & DOHERTY, ATTORNEYS AT LAW, (Office—South of Public Square.)

W. O. D. E. H. Call and examine Will practice in Monroe and adjoining counties, July 27, 75-76.

H. P. HUNTER, HUNTER & HALLOR, Attorneys at Law, Woodsfield, Ohio.

Office—Southwest corner Public Square, Woodsfield, Ohio.

Will practice in Monroe and adjoining counties, apr23, 74-75.

SPRING & SUMMER MILLINERY GOODS.

I have just received a nice stock of Hats, Bonnets, Collars, Ribbons, Flowers, and other articles connected with a Millinery Establishment. Call and examine my stock, ADLIE COOPER, may13, 80-81.

INSURE WITH J. T. PENNINGTON, General Fire Life & Accident Insurance Agent, Belleaire, Ohio.

Business done in Ohio and W. Va. Reliable Cash and Mutual Companies represented, dec18, 79-80.

NOTARY PUBLIC.

When undersigned, having been appointed a Notary Public, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he is prepared to fill Testimonials, Blanks, administer Oaths, take Depositions, acknowledge Deeds, Mortgages, and other instruments of writing, ap15, 78-79.

PHYSICIANS.

W. FOSTER, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, Malaga, Monroe County, Ohio, July 1, 1873-74.

T. H. ARMSTRONG, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, Woodsfield, Ohio.

Office over Pope & Castle's drug store, July 6, 75-76.

DR. B. DENNIE, PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, BEALLSVILLE, OHIO.

Office in the Armstrong property, apr30, 78-79.

DR. J. W. WAY, Physician and Surgeon, ELMO COVE, Washington Tp, Monroe County, Ohio.

All calls promptly attended to, during the day or night, feb23, 79-80.

DR. A. M. COVERT, Physician and Surgeon, Antioch, Monroe Co., Ohio, may11, 80-81.

DR. G. W. MASON & SON, Physicians and Surgeons, STAFFORD, MONROE CO., OHIO.

Office in Drug store, feb11, 79-80.

A. I. DORR, Physician and Surgeon, Woodsfield, Ohio.

Office one door north of H. B. Hill's residence. All calls attended, day or night, apr13, 80-81.

DR. S. L. STEWARD, Physician and Surgeon, MILTONSBURG, OHIO.

All calls promptly attended during the day or night. Office one door south of St. Paul's, apr13, 80-81.

J. P. FARQUHAR, M. D., (Formerly of Zanesville, Ohio), Physician and Surgeon, Woodsfield, Ohio.

Office and residence in the Watson property, at the north end of Main street, where he is having located at the above place, offers his professional services, where he hopes by close attention to business to merit special confidence and patronage. Chronic Diseases will receive special attention, may4, 75-76.

JOHN A. WATSON, Proprietor, GRAYSVILLE, OHIO.

This house furnishes good accommodations to the traveling public, and very reasonable bills are charged. Good care taken of horses, July 27, 80-81.

S. D. Ford, Has reopened his SILVERSMITH, Woodsfield, Ohio.

JEWELRY STORE, At the residence of his father, Thomas Ford, at the north end of Main street, where he is prepared to repair Clocks, Watches and Jewelry. He has a stock of jewelry on hand which he is selling at cost. If you want work done in a workmanlike manner, at fair rates, give me a call, may18, 80-81.

GO TO E. DENOON & SONS, QUEENSWARE, Woodsfield, Ohio.

Greenies Candles and Confectionaries, which they sell at the lowest prices. Go and see them, next door to the Star Hotel. This is the largest and best Hotel in the county. First class accommodations furnished board and room. Extra care taken of horses, jan29, 80-81.

Spectacles, AT H. MILLER'S, YOU WILL FIND BRAZILIAN & FRENCH SPECTACLES.

H. Miller has received a fine selected stock of Brazilian and French Spectacles, and is prepared to fit eyes of all ages, and for near sighted eyes, weak eyes, or any purpose you wish. H. MILLER, No. 338 Union street, opposite B. & O. Depot and opposite Bellaire Telephone office, Belleaire, Ohio.

P. S. Mr. Miller understands the Spectacle line as well as any optician in America, July 18, 80-81.

PROBATE NOTICE.

ACCOUNTS and vouchers have been filed in the Probate Court of Monroe County, Ohio, by the following Executors, Administrators and Guardians, to wit:

Second and final account of Margaret Michael Adm'r of the estate of John Michael, dec'd.

Second partial account of John Barkholder Guardian of Henry and Theodore Barkholder, dec'd.

First partial account of Theodore H. Malott Executor of the will of Levi Malott, dec'd.

First partial account of Joseph M. Clus Adm'r of the will of Henry Clus, dec'd.

Fourth and final account of J. M. Twine Adm'r of the estate of Thomas Bothwell, dec'd.

First and final account of Michael Roughter Adm'r of the estate of Thomas McGary, dec'd.

First and final account of Michael Roughter Guardian of Julia A. Shaw, dec'd.

First and final account of Michael Roughter Adm'r of the estate of Jacob Trues, dec'd.

First partial account of T. L. Twine Adm'r of the estate of Thomas C. Twine, dec'd.

Any person interested may file written objections to said accounts, or any item thereon, on or before the 25th day of September next, when the same will be finally heard and confirmed from day to day until disposed of, writing, ap15, 78-79.

2nd. WATSON, Probate Judge M. C. O.

Select Story.

CLEONE GRAY.

BY LIZZIE M. MULBURN.

I loved her so tenderly and well, loved her, it seemed to me, from my childhood, and going abroad I had carried her fair young face with me as my sweetest memory and my talisman against temptation.

Coming home at the end of five years, this was the story that met me:

Guy, my handsome, haughty brother, was doomed to fill a drunkard's grave, and Cleone Gray's faithlessness had driven him to it.

She had given him her promise to be his wife, then coolly, deliberately broken her engagement.

After that his descent had been rapid, and this was the end—death.

"Will you tell her I am dying, Douglas?" he said; "tell her that to see her face is my last wish on earth?"

I think no two brothers loved each other better than Guy and I. We were singularly alike in appearance, but I, though the younger, was stronger, more determined, firmer in character than ever Guy could be. He, naturally noble, gentle and generous, was easily led by any stronger will, occasionally making good resolutions and breaking them.

I had met Cleone Gray more than once; but in my bitter anger had avoided her as much as possible, merely bowing my thanks when she welcomed me back, barely touching the slender white hand she offered me.

She must have read the scorn in my eyes; but her proud, calm face gave no sign. She looked at me gravely—almost pityingly, it seemed—then turned quickly away.

Once again she had come to me and laid her hand on my arm, saying, "Why do you avoid me? We used to be friends years ago—playmates in our childhood, Douglas, can it be you think I am the cause of Guy's—Guy's—"

She paused and raised her eyes to mine, as if trying to read my thoughts. Oh, God! In that moment I realized how passionately, even deeming her unworthy, I loved her.

But I was strong—strong in my manhood and my pride, and I would crush it to death, even if my heart died with it.

"Ah, did I crush it? Pacing my room with restless footsteps I realized all Cleone Gray was to me."

I bent over her now.

"One question, Cleone," I said; "did you promise to become Guy's wife? Did his ring encircle your finger?"

"Yes, I promised to become his wife."

"Then refused to fulfill your engagement; took back your promise and wrecked his life?"

Her face grew pale, her lips curved bitterly as she read my thoughts.

"I am judged already," she said coldly; "but by what right I know not, except the right of presumption."

"And you can say this to me—no, Cleone Gray, who brought my brother to the death he is dying?"

Her face grew white, her red lips trembled, but her self-control never failed her.

"Mr. Vernon forgets that he ought to be a gentleman, as he forgets I am a lady."

Without another word I turned away, and now I stood beside the death bed of Guy, and heard him calling:

"Cleone—Cleone!"

"You wish to see her—your dear, I said then, 'Can you forgive her, Guy?'"

He looked at me, then smiled.

"You do not know what you are talking about, forgive Cleone Gray?"

He smiled again.

"He may live till morning," the doctor said, "and he may not see twelve o'clock."

"Douglas, could I only see her once again," he said, "Oh, my lost love, my darling!"

"You shall see her, Guy. I will go for her."

It was her birthday, and I knew I would find her at home. She was standing under the gaslight when I entered, and she came forward to meet me.

Even then her rare, fair beauty thrilled me, and I noticed the clustering lilies in her breast and hair.

"Guy is dying," I said; "he wishes to see you, Miss Gray. Will you come?"

God knows I did not mean to be even cruel then, and I was simply brutal, but I did not realize it till I saw how her face blanched white as death.

In a moment she recovered herself, though she still trembled slightly.

"I will come, but not at present; I cannot leave my guests just yet awhile."

She bowed coldly and turned away, and I felt distressed.

Guy looked at me with eager, questioning eyes when I entered.

"She did not come, but she will, my darling is very proud, Douglas; but she will come to me before I die. Ah, Cleone, how I loved you, yet even that love could not save me. My poor, proud love!"

I went over to the far end of the room and sat down in the shadow, and leaned my head on my hand, my soul filled with an awful bitterness.

Suddenly there was the sound of light footsteps, then the door opened, and Cleone Gray came in.

She was still in her ball dress of creamy silk, the lilies still nestled in her breast and hair, for the long cloak she had wrapped around her fell from her shoulders as she knelt beside the bed.

She did not notice me in the shadow as she bent over him and pushed the damp curls from his brow.

"My love—my love!" he said, "the struggle is over, but Cleone, believe me, I tried hard to keep this last promise—tried and failed. It is better I should die; I would never be worthy of your love. When that could not save me, I was doomed."

"You will not die, Guy," she said, softly, "you will live and strive once again, and at last, my love, you will conquer."

"Never," he said, his voice growing weaker; "but had you married me, Cleone, had you been my wife, it would have saved me."

ARTHUR!

THE TAIL OF THE RADICAL TICKET!

The Custom House Swindler and the Boss of the Gang!

Kicked Out of Office by John Sherman!

REPUBLICAN TESTIMONY

The Life of Hon John Sherman

pages 233, 234, 235, 236, says:

"The Secretary of the Treasury had communicated to Mr. Arthur the cause of his removal, which was stated substantially thus by Mr. Sherman: That gross abuses had continued and increased during Mr. Arthur's administration; that persons were paid who rendered little or no service; office expenses were increased and revenue diminished; bribes were received by subordinates; want of cooperation with efforts to correct these abuses. Still Mr. Arthur made serious complaints of the injustice of his removal. Then Mr. Sherman offered inducements for him to resign, but he declined, lest it might seem to be a confession of guilt."

"After the rejection of the nomination, Mr. Arthur continuing in office, every effort was made by the Department to secure his co-operation in the reform, but without success."

"That the reader may have a full view of the evils to be cured in New York, as well as the importance of a remedy, some of the evidence are here related which were reported to the Department."

"As to gratuities in the nature of bribes: 'The evidence taken shows that most of the witnesses who were interrogated on this point, stated that gratuities were constantly received. It was in testimony with regard to inspectors, that they were anxious to be sent to discharge their duties rather than sailing vessels, because they were paid by the owners of the steamships a gratuity of from ten to fifty dollars technically called 'house money.' The agent of one of these lines stated that thirty dollars was paid to each inspector discharging their duties, as they were charged to pay."

"Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."

Another year passed, and then I asked her again and her sweet eyes drooped beneath mine."

"I loved Guy well," she said, "but I think I love you even better, and kissing her lips I knew I had won the kissless love of Cleone Gray's heart."

"For his sake you are very dear to me now, Douglas, but, oh, I loved him well."